This course enables students to combine traditional research in scholarship with real world applications. Can be repeated for credit. (Qualifies as a CAP experience.) Prerequisites: ENGL 327W or ENGL 335, plus 15 hours in the major (with sufficient coursework in an involved emphasis) and approval by faculty practicum advisor.

ENGL 370. English Linguistics. 3 Credits.
A survey of topics in English linguistics. Topics include the sound system, the structure of words, the ways in which words and phrases form meaningful utterances, the structure of conversations, differences between spoken and written English, language acquisition by children, language variation, and language in its social context. Prerequisites: 6-hour general education composition requirement or permission of instructor.

ENGL 371W. Communication Across Cultures. 3 Credits.
An interdisciplinary examination of intercultural communication through film and readings in anthropology, linguistics, and world literature, this course will compare the values, beliefs, social structures and conventions of a number of cultures to those of the U.S. This course is part of the World Cultures interdisciplinary minor. This is a writing intensive course. Prerequisites: 6-hour general education composition requirement or permission of instructor.

ENGL 380. Reporting and News Writing I. 3 Credits.
This class focuses on media literacy and on the role of media in society. Students learn and practice elements of news writing, including writing leads, organizing stories, reporting techniques, and interviewing. Story assignments come from handouts, press releases, press conferences, speeches, and public meetings. Some assignments are completed under simulated deadline pressure in the computer lab. Prerequisite: Six semester hours in English.

ENGL 381. Public Relations. 3 Credits.
This course is designed to introduce the student to certain disciplines related to the public relations process. The emphasis is equally distributed between the handling of written materials and the dynamics of group relations, i.e., the publicist and the person or persons whom he or she is representing. The focus is distinguished from advertising by virtue of its emphasis upon public service, particularly the continued need for the free flow of information in the democratic process. Prerequisites: Six semester hours in English.

ENGL 382. Reporting News for Television and Digital Media. 3 Credits.
This course focuses on writing for television news and producing online news reports. Students strengthen their journalistic skills and learn the importance of writing clearly for a viewing audience while working under newsroom deadlines. By the end of the course, students should feel confident in producing accurate, detailed reports for both television news and online news sites. Prerequisites: A grade of C or better in ENGL 110C and ENGL 211C.

ENGL 383. Digital Journalism. 3 Credits.
Students will create a WordPress site and are expected to produce news stories on this site from events on campus and in the community. These news stories may include the use of audio, short video, hyperlinks, infographics, digital maps, and photo galleries. This is a hands-on practical course that will include news reporting and writing for on-line platforms, podcasts, blogs, video, and social media. Students will create a Twitter account and will be expected to Tweet from news events that they will cover. Additionally, in a group project, students will either produce a podcast or a video news story. By the end of the course, students will have marketable digital portfolio. Prerequisites: Grade of C or better in ENGL 110C and either ENGL 211C, ENGL 221C or ENGL 231C.

ENGL 384. Business and Science Journalism. 3 Credits.
This course is a combination of lecture and hands-on news reporting/analysis. The focus of this course is to familiarize students with the techniques of the traditional and "new media" journalist engaged in addressing critical societal problems. Additionally, this course will emphasize techniques of journalistic research to create reporting that is thorough, fair, and well-supported. Prerequisites: A grade of C or better in ENGL 110C and ENGL 211C or ENGL 221C or ENGL 231C.

ENGL 385. The Press and Making of American Democracy. 3 Credits.
In this course, students will study the role journalism and a free press have played in American history from the Colonial period to the current digital age. Most significantly, students will understand the relationship between a free press and the development of American democracy. The way the press has framed the debate on political, cultural, economic and social issues over the course of U.S. history will be examined. Also examined will be how the changing practice of journalism—from print, to radio, television and today's social media—has impacted the relationship between the media, the government, and the citizen. Prerequisites: A grade of C or better in ENGL 110C and ENGL 211C or ENGL 221C or ENGL 231C.

ENGL 387. TV News Production. 3 Credits.
This course is designed to provide students with an introduction to the reporting, writing, and production aspects of a television news program. Students will learn how to create 15- and 30-minute news broadcasts by developing story ideas and news gathering. Students will also learn the intricacies of shooting and editing video along with the production process involved in recording a live news broadcast. Each student will spend time both in front of and behind the television studio cameras. The goal of this course is to produce weekly news programs worthy of broadcast on local television. Students will assume the roles of reporter, writer, producer, floor director, photojournalist, videographer, technician, and more. (Cross listed with COMM 387/THEA 387) Prerequisites: COMM 271 or THEA 271 or DANC 271. Pre- or corequisite: COMM 382 or ENGL 382.

ENGL 390. TESL Methods, Materials, & Assessment. 3 Credits.
This course is designed to provide students with the background and tools necessary for teaching English as a Second Language (ESL) at the K-12 or post-secondary level. The course covers the major theories of language learning, focusing primarily on current methods for language learning and teaching along with practical applications of teaching methods through a focus on designing activities and lesson plans, developing assessment tools, and teaching with technology. Prerequisites: 6-hour general education composition requirement or permission of instructor.

ENGL 395. Topics in English. 1-3 Credits.
A study of selected topics designed for nonmajors or for elective credit within a major. These courses will appear in the course schedule and will be more fully described in information distributed to academic advisors. Prerequisites: Grade of C or better in ENGL 110C and either ENGL 211C, ENGL 221C, or ENGL 231C.

Prerequisites: ENGL 300W, or three semester hours in literature and permission of the instructor.

ENGL 450/550. American English. 3 Credits.
When people think of 'American English,' they usually have a standard form in mind. In this course, we focus on the variety of ways English is spoken in the U.S. and the social meaning of that variation. We also discuss language-based discrimination and strategies that can be used to confront it. Models for collecting, describing, and analyzing variation in American English are introduced and applied to real-life situations. Prerequisites: 6-hour general education composition requirement or permission of instructor.

ENGL 451/551. Advanced Fiction Workshop. 3 Credits.
This course, an expansion of the principles and techniques learned in ENGL 351, focuses on the writing and criticism of the short story, the novella, and the novel. Prerequisites: ENGL 351; junior standing, or permission of the instructor, based on writing samples submitted.

ENGL 452/552. Advanced Poetry Workshop. 3 Credits.
This course, an expansion of the principles and techniques learned in ENGL 352, focuses on the writing and criticism of poetry. Prerequisites: ENGL 352 and junior standing or permission of the instructor, based on writing samples submitted.

ENGL 454/554. Creative Nonfiction. 3 Credits.
A course in the techniques of writing nonfiction imaginatively within a factual context. Emphasis is placed on regard for reader psychology, selection of significant detail, and the development of a style at once lively and lucid. Assignments are made individually with regard to the student's field of interest—history, biography, science, politics, informal essay, etc. Advice is given on the marketing of promising manuscripts. Prerequisites: ENGL 327W or ENGL 351 and junior standing or permission of the instructor, based on writing samples submitted.

ENGL 455/555. The Teaching of Composition, Grades 6-12. 3 Credits.
A study of the theory and practice of teaching writing. Special attention will be given to the ways effective teachers allow theories and experiences to inform their pedagogical strategies. Prerequisites: ENGL 300W or ENGL 327W or permission of the instructor.

ENGL 456/556. The Craft of Fiction. 3 Credits.
A detailed study of fictional technique in the novel and short story, with emphasis on character development, conflict, point of view, plot, setting, mood, tone, and diction. Especially designed for, but not limited to, creative writing students; supplements the creative writing workshops. Prerequisites: Six semester hours in literature or ENGL 300W plus three semester hours in literature; junior standing or permission of the instructor.

ENGL 457/557. The Craft of Poetry. 3 Credits.
A detailed study of technique in poetry, with emphasis on form, imagery, rhythm, and symbolism. Especially designed for, but not limited to, creative writing students; supplements the creative writing workshops. Prerequisites: Six semester hours in literature or ENGL 300W plus three semester hours in literature; junior standing or permission of the instructor.

ENGL 686. Introduction to Rhetoric and Writing Studies. 3 Credits.
This course presents key concepts, principles, traditions, and conversations that define the field of rhetoric and composition, surveying major texts, movements, issues, and methodologies. This course is designed primarily to prepare students for advanced courses in professional writing; however, it will also benefit any student who is interested in gaining insights about language, knowledge, and power from the perspective of rhetoric.

ENGL 687. Colloquium for Teachers of English. 3 Credits.
This course discusses theories of teaching, writing and literature and helps explore the challenges facing 21st century educators in terms of finding ways to reach the 21st century student. The course investigates ways to help students understand the inherent value of reading and writing. Additionally, the course looks at pedagogical models and examines how they can be applied to individual areas of expertise. May be repeated for credit when topic varies.

ENGL 694. Thesis Colloquium. 3 Credits.
All MFA students are required to take ENGL 694 before their final semester. The course brings together all genres in a collaborative focus in which students discuss specific thesis projects, format requirements, publishing opportunities and reading lists for the 10-page prefatory essay required for their defense. Prerequisites: May be taken after 24 graduate hours have been completed.

ENGL 695. Topics. 1-3 Credits.
The advanced study of a selected topic in English. Topics courses will appear in the course schedule and will be more fully described in information distributed to all academic advisors.

ENGL 696. Independent Readings. 3 Credits.
Designed for the advanced student (15-20 hours) who wants to study in-depth a sharply focused area of literature, linguistics, or pedagogy. Before registering for the course, the student must make out a prospectus with the instructor and submit it. No graduate student is permitted to take more than two independent readings courses.

ENGL 697. Portfolio Preparation. 3 Credits.
Preparatory course designed to assist students in the development of a professional or teaching portfolio. Students will consult regularly with their committee. Prerequisites: 21 credit hours of course work completed.

ENGL 698. Thesis Research. 1-9 Credits.
Preparatory course designed to assist students in the writing of a thesis. Students will consult regularly with the faculty. Prerequisite: Instructor approval and completion of 30 hours of course work required.

ENGL 699. Thesis. 1-9 Credits.
Writing of the creative thesis. Prerequisites: Instructor approval and completion of 30 hours of course work required.

ENGL 701. Texts and Technologies. 3 Credits.
Tracing the development of writing technologies from Ancient Greece through contemporary blogs and wikis, this course focuses on the relationships between a text's physical qualities and its composition, production, and reception.

ENGL 703. Technologies of the Book. 3 Credits.
This course explores the history and future of the book, print technology, the way books are made, shared, collected, preserved, and discarded, and the status of the book within larger information systems—archives, libraries, and private collections—in the digital age. How do we reconceive the book and its place in the increasingly digital cultural archive?

ENGL 705. Discourse and Rhetoric Across Cultures. 3 Credits.
The course is a survey of language use both within and across cultures. Topics include relationships between language and conceptualization (linguistic relativity); description and interpretation of linguistic and rhetorical patterns; the organization, expression, and analysis of cultural meaning (e.g. frames, cultural models, narratives); relational aspects of language use; and literacy practices.

ENGL 706. Visual Rhetoric and Document Design. 3 Credits.
This course focuses on how visual elements, whether verbal or graphic, work within different types of documents. Theory and research in visual rhetoric and technical communication will be used to develop models for how people process visual information in terms of a variety of social and cultural contexts.

ENGL 710. Major Debates in English Studies. 3 Credits.
This course introduces students to the principal questions and concerns of the field and includes a comparison and contrast of the subspecialties in English, including how they form and address key issues.

ENGL 715. Technical Communication Theories and Practices. 3 Credits.
This course surveys the history of professional writing, competing theories and research methodologies in the field. The tensions between workplace practices, professional writing scholarship, and professional writing pedagogy will also be explored.

ENGL 717. Teaching Professional and Technical Writing. 3 Credits.
This course introduces students to the field of technical communication by way of classroom practice with the goal of professionalizing students as teachers of technical communication (or technical writing). Students are asked to design undergraduate course materials and projects, which will be informed by exploration of the extensive boundaries of the field and critical consideration of the most pressing questions facing technical communication scholars and the most common problems facing technical communication practitioners today. Prerequisites: ENGL 715 recommended.

ENGL 720. Pedagogy and Instructional Design. 3 Credits.
Students in this course will be prepared to develop pedagogical plans, teach and assess writing in four instructional areas: advanced and professional writing courses, writing across the curriculum, workplace instruction, and distributed learning. New pedagogical tools, especially computer-based technologies, will be taught, analyzed and tested.

ENGL 721. Compositions as Applied Rhetoric. 3 Credits.
Students will examine how the field of rhetoric has shaped composition pedagogy in the United States from its inception at Harvard to postmodern possibilities of today's writing classroom. Prerequisite: 3 credits of a graduate level rhetoric or composition course or instructor's permission.

ENGL 722. Multilingualism and Writing Instruction. 3 Credits.
Examines the social and institutional contexts that shape the expectations placed on writing instruction, the cross-cultural issues that affect how multilingual students compose English texts, and the curricular strategies for designing assignments and assessing multilingual writers' work.

ENGL 724. Online Writing Instructions. 3 Credits.
Students will learn how to negotiate the intersection between online instruction and writing pedagogy by exploring and interrogating the ways that various means of course mediation shapes the literacy pedagogy an instructor can develop. ENGL 664 is recommended as a prerequisite.

ENGL 725. Scholarly Editing and Textual Scholarship. 3 Credits.
Surveys the theory and practice of scholarly editing, of the physical description of texts as material artifacts, and of the historical and social contextualization of texts as material artifacts. Focus is on texts produced in manuscripts and print, but consideration is given to oral texts and digital texts. Prerequisite: Instructor approval required.

ENGL 726. The British Periodical Press. 3 Credits.
A study of the British periodical press from the 1700s to c.1900 as an archival object revealing the life and culture of the Enlightenment, Romantic, and Victorian Eras. The course considers the sociocultural function of newspapers, monthlies, annuals, and serial novels, and critiques material and digital archival work.
ENGL 727. London Calling: 20th and 21st Century British Literature. 3 Credits.
Studies of major poets, dramatists and prose writers. Some attention will be given to the movements, trends, forces, and ideas of the period. The course coheres around a pertinent theme, historical moment, genre, or theoretical inquiry.

ENGL 728. Eighteenth Century British Literature. 3 Credits.
A study of the literature written in the British Isles from the “Glorious Revolution” of 1688 until 1800, focusing on how the flowering of satire and the emergence of new literary forms such as periodical journalism, the novel, and “mock heroic” poetry interacted with the growth of distinctly modern institutions and philosophies such as a free, commercial press, market capitalism, colonialism, political radicalism, and industrialism.

ENGL 730. The Digital Humanities. 3 Credits.
Taking historical, cultural, and theoretical views, this course bridges literary studies with new media. How has technology historically affected literature and culture? Can the democratization of information accelerate literary development? Topics will include digital archives, intellectual property in the information age, and electronic textuality.

ENGL 732. Digital Activisms. 3 Credits.
An exploration of the diffuse and disparate methods and practices of contemporary digital activism.

ENGL 734. Theories of Networks. 3 Credits.
An increasing amount of scholarship in English studies focuses on the networked interactions between texts and other texts, people, technologies, etc. To account for these various types of relationships between different types of objects a number of theories of networks have emerged. This course considers key theoretical discussions that work to define nodes, relationships between them, and how networks emerge, grow, and/or dissolve.

ENGL 735. Postcolonial Literature and Theory. 3 Credits.
An examination of the discourse of postcolonial critical theory literature produced in postcolonial, diasporic and global contexts. Prerequisite: Any equivalent graduate level critical theory course or instructor permission.

ENGL 736. (Against) World Literature. 3 Credits.
Analyzes world literature’s disciplinary affordances and limitations and considers world literature’s tensions with comparative literature. Students examine a theme, genre, or other literary topic as it appears in the literature of several countries. All works are assigned in English translation if not originally written in English.

ENGL 737. Narratology. 3 Credits.
A study of the various theories that have emerged since the early twentieth century about the form, history, and cultural significance of narrative as a pecific discursive mode. Theories will range from structuralist approaches to narrative elements like plot, perspective, and voice, to politically-engaged theories like Marxist, Feminist, and Queer narratology, as well as to more recent theories such as Storyworld/Possible Worlds theory. The focus will be on linguistic, “literary” narratives, but narratives in other media (such as film or graphic novels) and other genres (such a historiography) will be also be studied.

ENGL 740. Empirical Research Methods and Project Design. 3 Credits.
This course focuses on the theory and design of empirical research conducted in academic and nonacademic settings. Students will examine the methodological complexities of ethnography, meta-analysis, feminist research and other approaches.

ENGL 741. Nineteenth Century British Literature. 3 Credits.
A study of a selection of the literature written in Britain during the romantic and Victorian ages, focusing on the social, historical, and ideological contexts informing its production. Texts analyzed include poetry, fiction, and nonfiction.

ENGL 750. Service Learning in English Studies. 3 Credits.
Students will engage in service-learning activities and apply various concepts and skills from their experience and coursework to identify and respond to the needs in the community. An analytical paper and portfolio of service-learning materials are required. Prerequisite: Instructor approval required.

ENGL 751. American Literature to 1810. 3 Credits.
Intensive study of a variety of texts from several genres reflecting the historical forces, aesthetic movements, social trends, and representative works of the period.

ENGL 753. Queer of Color Critique. 3 Credits.
This course works in and between the complex intersectional crossroads of critical race and sexuality studies, Black queer/quare studies, and performance studies. Insisting upon the inextricability of racial subjectivity, gender expression, and sexual orientation, it offers a study of critique, literature, and performance at the intersections of Black/Latinx social identities and movements in a US context, while remaining attentive to diasporic and global networks of people and power.

ENGL 754. Cultural Studies. 3 Credits.
A study of the historical formation of cultural studies and the theoretical principles that underwrote its emergence, development, and institutional adaptation.

ENGL 755. Critical Race Theory. 3 Credits.
The goal of this course is to examine various approaches to Critical Race Studies and, in light of its theoretical commitments, explore its problems, possibilities, and limitations. How might we better understand our history and contemporary politics through the methodologies of critical race theory?
Does critical race theory open up new areas for exploration or does it make our understanding of race and ethnicity more indefinite? Such an exploration will require us to think carefully about race and racism, but also other forms of identity like gender, class, and sexuality.

ENGL 756. Pocahontas Unplugged: Jamestown, Pocahontas and the Forging of American Identity. 3 Credits.
An investigation of the cultural discourse surrounding the figure of Pocahontas in Early American literature and history, observing its construction within the dominant archive and its performance over a period of four centuries. Also seeks to understand Pocahontas from within local indigenous traditions and a larger network of indigenous agency.

ENGL 757. American Literature 1810-1870. 3 Credits.
An intensive study of a variety of texts from several genres reflecting the historical forces, aesthetic movements, social trends, and representative works of the period.

ENGL 758. American Literature 1870-1946. 3 Credits.
Intensive study of a variety of texts from several genres reflecting the historical forces, aesthetic movements, social trends, and representative works of the period.

ENGL 760. Classical Rhetoric and Theory Building. 3 Credits.
Analysis and discussion of classical theories of rhetoric, with attention to how rhetoric describes discourse in the public sphere.

ENGL 763. Seminar in Discourse Analysis. 3 Credits.
This course introduces students to the methodological and analytical approaches to discourse analysis. Students explore what it means to engage in meaningful, grounded, data-driven research through an examination of original research articles and by designing and conducting their own discourse analysis research project.

ENGL 764. Theories of Literature. 3 Credits.
An in-depth study of selected theories about the form, history, and cultural significance of literature, such as narrative theory, poststructuralism, Marxism, and feminism. Specific topics may vary by semester, but all sections will engage comprehensively with a body of theoretical texts and concerns.

ENGL 765. Modern Rhetoric and Theory Building. 3 Credits.
This course concerns the development of rhetoric as an academic discipline in the twentieth century, in particular how rhetoric has distinguished itself from literary, historical, philosophical, and linguistic modes of inquiry.

ENGL 766. New Media Theory and Practice I. 3 Credits.
This course involves hands-on instruction in a variety of software packages used to create websites and multi-media projects. Students will explore the rhetorical, literary, and technical aspects of their own projects as well as other web-based and multi-media compositions/products.
ENGL 770. Research Methods in Language Analysis. 3 Credits.
The course introduces general concepts, research methods, and techniques used in language analysis. Both quantitative and qualitative approaches are discussed, including the use of surveys, case studies, and experimental study designs. Two main goals are emphasized: To become a better reader of research reports and to develop research and analytical skills applicable to the analyses of spoken and written language. Previous research-oriented coursework or experience is strongly recommended.

ENGL 771. New Media Theory and Practice II. 3 Credits.
This course builds on the study of new media textual production and consumption in English Studies begun in New Media Theory and Practice
I and gives students the opportunity to engage in more advanced theoretical and production work. This course will focus on the integration of multiple modes and media using a variety of software and hardware. Prerequisite:
ENGL 766.

ENGL 775. Seminar in English Studies - Pedagogy and Curriculum
Design. 3 Credits.
This course introduces students to literacy theory and challenges them to apply it in specific disciplines within English Studies. Prerequisite:
ENGL 720 or ENGL 820 recommended.

ENGL 778. Seminar in Sociolinguistics. 3 Credits.
This seminar focuses on language in society, with emphasis on the everyday types of speech that people use to situate themselves in social worlds. Topics include ethnography of communication, language ideologies, linguistic style and stance, social and regional variation, and qualitative and quantitative methods of analysis.

ENGL 780. Corpus Use, Research, and Material Design. 3 Credits.
The course provides a hands-on introduction to the use of corpora in language studies, register, and genre analysis in combination with other methodologies. It is a survey of existing English language corpora and the central concepts and methods of corpus-based language analysis and material design. The main focus is on the use of corpora as a resource for research, teaching, and learning.

ENGL 783. Seminar in Professional Writing. 3 Credits.
This course will provide an intensive examination of a specific topic or issue in professional writing and serve as a field course for Professional Writing and New Media. Prerequisite: Instructor approval.

ENGL 790. Seminar in Textual Studies. 3 Credits.
This course will provide an intensive examination of a specific topic or issue in textual studies and serve as a field course for Rhetoric and Textual Studies. Prerequisite: Instructor approval.

ENGL 791. Seminar in Literary Studies. 3 Credits.
Intensive seminar in a variable topic within literary or literary/cultural studies.

ENGL 793. Seminar in Rhetoric. 3 Credits.
This course will provide an intensive examination of a specific topic or issue in rhetoric and serve as a field course for Rhetoric and Textual Studies.
Prerequisite: Instructor approval.

ENGL 794. Seminar in New Media. 3 Credits.
This course will provide an intensive examination of a specific topic or issue in new media and serve as a field course for Professional Writing and New Media. Prerequisite: Instructor approval.

ENGL 795. Topics. 3 Credits.
Variable course material for students in the Ph.D. in English degree program. Prerequisite: must be enrolled in a graduate program.

ENGL 797. Independent Study in English. 3 Credits.
Provides opportunities for doctoral students to do independent research in areas of their interests. Hours to be arranged. Prerequisite: graduate standing.

ENGL 801. Texts and Technologies. 3 Credits.
Tracing the development of writing technologies from Ancient Greece through contemporary blogs and wikis, this course focuses on the relationships between a text's physical qualities and its composition, production, and reception.

ENGL 803. Technologies of the Book. 3 Credits.
This course explores the history and future of the book, print technology, the way books are made, shared, collected, preserved, and discarded, and the status of the book within larger information systems—archives, libraries, and private collections—in the digital age. How do we reconceive the book and its place in the increasingly digital cultural archive?

ENGL 805. Discourse and Rhetoric Across Cultures. 3 Credits.
The course is a survey of language use both within and across cultures.
Topics include relationships between language and conceptualization (linguistic relativity); description and interpretation of linguistic and rhetorical patterns; the organization, expression, and analysis of cultural meaning (e.g. frames, cultural models, narratives); relational aspects of language use; and literacy practices.

ENGL 806. Visual Rhetoric and Document Design. 3 Credits.
This course focuses on how visual elements, whether verbal or graphic, work within different types of documents. Theory and research in visual rhetoric and technical communication will be used to develop models for how people process visual information in terms of a variety of social and cultural contexts.

ENGL 810. Major Debates in English Studies. 3 Credits.
This course introduces students to the principal questions and concerns of the field and includes a comparison and contrast of the subspecialties in English, including how they form and address key issues.

ENGL 815. Technical Communication Theories and Practices. 3 Credits.
This course surveys the history of professional writing, competing theories and research methodologies in the field. The tensions between workplace practices, professional writing scholarship, and professional writing pedagogy will also be explored.

ENGL 817. Teaching Professional and Technical Writing. 3 Credits.
This course introduces students to the field of technical communication by way of classroom practice with the goal of professionalizing students as teachers of technical communication (or technical writing). Students are asked to design undergraduate course materials and projects, which will be informed by exploration of the extensive boundaries of the field and critical consideration of the most pressing questions facing technical communication scholars and the most common problems facing technical communication practitioners today.

ENGL 820. Pedagogy and Instructional Design. 3 Credits.
Students in this course will be prepared to develop pedagogical plans, teach and assess writing in four instructional areas: advanced and professional writing courses, writing across the curriculum, workplace instruction, and distributed learning. New pedagogical tools, especially computer-based technologies, will be taught, analyzed and tested.

ENGL 821. Compositions as Applied Rhetoric. 3 Credits.
Students will examine how the field of rhetoric has shaped composition pedagogy in the United States from its inception at Harvard to postmodern possibilities of today's writing classroom. Prerequisite: 3 credits of a graduate level rhetoric or composition course or instructor's permission.

ENGL 822. Multilingualism and Writing Instruction. 3 Credits.
Examines the social and institutional contexts that shape the expectations placed on writing instruction, the cross-cultural issues that affect how multilingual students compose English texts, and the curricular strategies for designing assignments and assessing multilingual writers' work.

ENGL 824. Online Writing Instruction. 3 Credits.
Students will learn how to negotiate the intersection between online instruction and writing pedagogy by exploring and interrogating the ways that various means of course mediation shapes the literacy pedagogy an instructor can develop.

ENGL 825. Scholarly Editing and Textual Scholarship. 3 Credits.
Surveys the theory and practice of scholarly editing, of the physical description of texts as material artifacts, and of the historical and social contextualization of texts as material artifacts. Focus is on texts produced in manuscripts and print, but consideration is given to oral texts and digital

ENGL 883. Seminar in Professional Writing. 3 Credits.
This course will provide an intensive examination of a specific topic or issue in professional writing and serve as a field course for Professional Writing and New Media. Prerequisite: Instructor approval.

ENGL 890. Seminar in Textual Studies. 3 Credits.
This course will provide an intensive examination of a specific topic or issue in textual studies and serve as a field course for Rhetoric and Textual Studies. Prerequisite: Instructor approval.

ENGL 891. Seminar in Literary Studies. 3 Credits.
Intensive seminar in a variable topic within literary or literary/cultural studies. Prerequisites: Student must be enrolled in doctoral program to take this course.

ENGL 892. Dissertation Seminar. 3 Credits.
This course is taken prior to doctoral candidacy exams. It enables students to develop and refine a topic for the dissertation, do preliminary research, and construct a bibliography under the guidance of a faculty mentor. Students will also use the seminar to prepare bibliographies to be used in candidacy exams. Prerequisite: All core, field, and elective coursework must be completed prior to enrollment.

ENGL 893. Seminar in Rhetoric. 3 Credits.
This course will provide an intensive examination of a specific topic or issue in rhetoric and serve as a field course for Rhetoric and Textual Studies. Prerequisite: Instructor approval.

ENGL 894. Seminar in New Media. 3 Credits.
This course will provide an intensive examination of a specific topic or issue in new media and serve as a field course for Professional Writing and New Media. Prerequisite: Instructor approval.
