Elizabeth Burns, Graduate Program Director

This degree and concentration are intended for licensed teachers seeking to add a School Library Endorsement to their Teaching License. Students interested in school librarianship who do not have a teaching license will be advised through the Master of Library and Information Studies degree and may have additional coursework and requirements.

The purpose of the Master of Library and Information Studies is to prepare students with the theoretical knowledge and practical skills that will enable them to become highly proficient librarians, media specialists, and information authorities. This includes, but is not limited to, professional positions in academic libraries, public libraries, school libraries, and special libraries such as health sciences, law, or business libraries as well as positions for information specialists in health environments, museums, businesses, government and other agencies.

Graduates of the program will be prepared to manage libraries, select and organize library collections, and interact with library patrons to determine and fulfill information and media needs. Further, librarianship has become a technology-based career and the proposed program reflects this focus.

Through specific skills taught in the courses contained in the program of study, individuals will engage in the collection, organization, retrieval, preservation, management, and dissemination of information resources to enrich cultures within society. Thus, MLIS graduates will also be trained to perform tasks such as analyzing patron information requests, assisting in finding information sources including print, audio-video, and virtual information, and teaching information literacy skills.

Coursework for the MLIS is offered asynchronously and online. Coursework is project-based and students are expected to spend time in a library or other information setting for most courses. All students complete an internship. This program is available online.

The Master of Library and Information Studies Program at Old Dominion University is accredited by the American Library Association Committee on Accreditation, with the status of Initial Accreditation. The next comprehensive review visit is scheduled for Fall 2028.
